Bacon, which is new for my we (you and I, not Kevin) just cried for a very long time at was just miserable in a way miss you very much and I a way. Because you aren't do wondered if there is a way to problem in either of our live	lived a very long and random conversation with Kevin dreams, and then you showed up, which is not new, and st sat on a couch and stared at each other's eyes and and it was very sad, and you were particularly sad, and it the last almost-three years have felt miserable, because I m recently less interested in being so miserable in that ead, and I don't want you to be dead. So I guess I just so not be so disconnected from you that won't be a les. And that's why I wanted to talk to you. did also want to make sure you weren't dead.

	No phones no #s. I reached bottom awhile ago and Im ready to stop digging now. I hate the characterization of my life experience as self induced drama. Is what I'm living through a drama of my own choosing. I guess it's all a drama though. I think the drama that is the narrative of ones life is not something we control. I guess we can control our reaction to how the play unfolds — not be so "dramatic" "overly sensitive," "emotional." Am I those things? I think that I appear dramatic when I see or experience cruelty that is purposeful or willfully negligent. I cant ignore a dog being beaten. I feel beaten like a dog by those who profess to love me some days. Im totally bewildered by their behavior. And I don't necessarily think we get to choose the author but at some point.
	every character in every great story seems to overcome, outgrow every authors omnipotence. They take on a life of their own. They cant leave the covers the pages of the drama they were written into and the

I'm with you.

Hi! How are you doing?

First day back go ok?

No rush

Bossy ♥ I love you. Maybe FaceTime soon...

Not really just put it on video and move your hand downward about 6 inches

maybe now

Hi

1 sec

Stop it

I'm at home eating chocolate and thinking of you. Call me.
