In early November 1955 we received a letter from [REDACTED] of Uve, Belgian Congo, requesting price and delivery information on a short, compact, 60x telescope which we manufacture for sportsmen. The following paragraphs are taken from [REDACTED] letter:

As you Americans do not want to tell us what the so stupidly called 'flying saucers' are, and above all, what they want (and this may be very important in the future), I need your excellent telescope for myself and my observation group which I am just creating.

The UFO [Unidentified Flying Objects] are coming more and more over this country, and owing perhaps to the very nature of this land and its beautiful nights, we here look more often in the sky than the busy Americans.

When telling me the price, please remember that the packing must be almost armor-plated, because otherwise the local vandals may destroy the telescope even before it reaches me."
